Customer Journey

By searching through online and finding appropriate heart disease prediction system and register as a user

User gives their problems which includes various parameters as the input to the prediction system

Visualize the predicted information and the data from the patient is collected and the pattern of heart disease is analyzed.

Easy to access, visualize the prediction. The predicted is depicted as an interactive dashboard

Through data analytics, the user gains Knowledge of their health reports and keep check of their regular health. The prediction system is enhanced through various research

